

Public LectureDan Cohen

Post-Doctoral Fellow, Department of Geography, Planning & Environment, Concordia University

Market-Making on Contested
Terrain: Struggles over Charter School Markets in the United States

Since the early 1990s the landscape of schooling in the United States has been remade through market-based schooling policies such as charter schools. Through comparing differences in how these markets have been constructed in Portland, Oregon and Detroit, Michigan, this talk will explore the spatial elements of market-making.

Thursday, March 22nd, 2018

5 pm – 7 pm

Concordia University

Atrium - Samuel Bronfman Building

1590 Dr. Penfield (corner Cote-des-neiges)

polanyi.institute@concordia.ca / 514 848-8707